

Complaint

What She Said About Him

From the family man's viewpoint William Feather, editor of Imperial Type Metal magazine, airs the following debate—but don't drag me into this.

It's a Feather talking, and what he says is this:

A young woman complained that her husband was useless around the house. She said he was lackadaisical about his children and unappreciative of what she does for them. When screens have to be put up or the garage cleaned, he has her hire the work done.

To stress her predicament, she ran over a list of her friends and what they expect and get from their husbands.

The husband, who was present, wasn't defending himself. It evidently was a regular rehearsal of this theme.

This woman is a good wife and mother. But she confessed that at times she envies the attention and help her less efficient and more demanding friends get from their husbands.

Although he didn't say so, her husband knows that the more a man does around the house, the more is expected of him. Once he has the children up on Sunday morning, he is stuck with that job for life, or until he can hire someone other than his wife to do it.

I asked the young lady why she had married this man. "That's an entirely different question," she said.

Psychiatrists Will Seek Cure For International Jitters

BY JAMES THRASHER

The UN's World Health Organization has announced that it will summon the pick of the world's psychiatrists to London this summer and try to find the cause and cure of mankind's case of jitters.

Already, WHO officials say, 200 organizations in this country are gathering data on the subject. And the London conference will be only the first in a series of international meetings to study global nervousness.

WHO's executive secretary is quoted as declaring, "The cure must start with the individual. He's nervous and a little afraid."

It is frequently said that there are not enough qualified psychiatrists in the country to care for those in dire need of treatment. This state of affairs is probably general. At the same time we feel safe in saying, despite our limited knowledge, that the cure for the psychiatrist there is not a "normal" human being.

So how will the psychiatrists go about starting to cure the individual? And what individuals—all of us, or only those who are nervous and a little afraid? How will they cure the patients from the thin ranks of the calm and courageous? It would hardly be feasible to try to cure enough psychiatric clinics even to care for those who need treatment and know it. Consider New York, London, Moscow and other great cities would not be enough, for nervousness and fear are not exclusively big-city afflictions.

So, if there aren't enough psychiatrists to analyze the world, then what? Will the international psychiatrists wind up writing a set of rules or a book that is required reading? Probably not, for the world's collective psychosis would require individual treatment for hundreds of millions of people. Curing anxiety and fear complexes is not a mass-production job.

Doctors can diagnose something like malaria or pellagra pretty accurately. And they are reasonably sure that if they give the malaria victims quinine, and the pellagra victims vitamins and a more diversified diet, and give the treatment long enough and in sufficient doses, they can control most of the cases. But psychosis cannot be controlled by such general treatment.

So what will WHO do to whom? Perhaps the international psychiatrists' meetings will discover that people are nervous and afraid because there is the possibility of war—atomic, biological war in which no one is safe. Maybe they will also discover that people are nervous and afraid because their jobs pay poorly, and their living costs are high, and their food is skimpy, and the prospects of improvement don't seem too good.

The cure for the last type of jitters would seem to be up to statesmen, economists, businessmen and not psychiatrists. That leaves the jitters caused by the world's top psychiatrists could only get J. Stalin, V. M. Molotov and a few others to lie down on the doctors couch and just start talking freely about what bothers them.

Negro Joint on N. Hazel Is Padlocked

Sheriff Claude H. Sutton and his deputies Friday closed Central Hazel Place No. 1 on North Hazel Street under a temporary padlock order obtained by Prosecuting Attorney James H. Pilkinton.

A hearing will be held May 25 on the state's petition to make the order permanent. It is alleged that liquor has been sold in large quantities in and about the premises. The City Police on Thursday raided the establishment and seized a quantity of liquor. The state has asked that the place be closed as a public nuisance.

Union Prevents Burial of War Hero

Jersey City, N. J., May 8 —(AP) — Union leaders accused of preventing a detachment of marines from carrying the casket of a marine returned from Iwo Jima for a funeral here yesterday at a lengthy congressional hearing.

One union official, John Caroselli of the AFL Temestors Union, said he had refused the request of a cousin of the dead marine, five minutes before the funeral, to allow a detachment of marines to act as pallbearers. He added, however, that arrangements for the funeral had been completed in advance with the family and the funeral director. In the future, he said, his union will be willing to donate its services for reinforcement ceremonies.

Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kas), chairman of the three-man subcommittee which held the hearing, commented after the hearing:

"I don't think we found the whole truth about how this union operates. I think the evidence shows that the union dictates to the funeral directors how they shall operate."

The subcommittee held the hearing at the request of Rep. Fred A. Hartley, Jr. (R-N.J.), chairman of the House Labor Committee, who said he had received protests over the funeral of Pvt. James J. Donnelly, Jr., in Jersey City last month.

Mrs. Donnelly, mother of the dead marine, testified she asked Staff Sgt. Rodger A. Barnes, who headed the funeral escort of marines from the Bayonne naval depot, to have the marines carry the body of her son. She said he told her the union pallbearers had refused the request.

The undertaker, Richmond F. Routh, of Jersey City, testified that when he was approached just before the funeral by a cousin of the deceased, he said the family wanted the marines to carry the casket. He referred the request to Cayser, secretary-treasurer of Local 907. Smith pointed a finger at Cayser and said, "You are a boss and you are a czar and that's why Routh the undertaker went to you."

'Confidence' Game Again Works Here

The old "Confidence" game was pulled here yesterday with the victim, Elizabeth Raglan, local negro woman, losing $80. It all happened about 2-45 p.m. yesterday on the downtown streets. An unidentified negro man told the Raglan woman he would hold her money while she cashed a check. He was last seen on freight train heading for Texarkana. Police have been alerted in that connection.

Volunteers were called to help clean up Fair park Wednesday afternoon, starting at 1 p.m. Every one is asked to help including men, women and children.

During the afternoon a picnic will be held for all Hope Beverage Co. and Hope Bottling Co. will furnish soft drinks and the local bakery will deliver hot rolls.

Steward Held in Fatal Stabbing

Charleston, S. C., May 8 —(UP) — Police today held an inmate of the Charleston House here in connection with the fatal stabbing of Robert New, Jr., port agent of the National Maritime Union and head of the local Wallace-for-President committee.

Police Chief Chris Ortman said that Rudolph Sereno, an "extra" steward, broke into a meeting at the union hall last night and knifed New in the jugular vein.

Sereno came to the meeting indicated earlier in the afternoon, police said, and was ejected several times because of his condition. When he came back later, he leaped upon New and stabbed him several times.

New, 28, died a short time later from excessive loss of blood. He was a native of Brooklyn and had been head of the NUM here for three years.

Rockets Aid New Bomber's Takeoff

With 18 rocket units providing the push, the Air Force's newest bomber heads skyward in a Seattle, Wash., test. The Boeing XB47 Stratojet has the rockets built into its fuselage. The plane has six turbo-jets to provide flying power, and swept-back wings. Its performance figures are still secret.

Burma War Leaders Are Hanged

Rangoon, May 8 — (UP) — U. S. premier of Burma, Aung San, and five other men were hanged today for the July 19 assassination of Premier U. Aung San and six of his cabinet ministers.

The hangings were private. U. S. and three others went to the gallows at 5:30 a. m. at Insein jail, nine miles from Rangoon, while two others were hanged concurrently in downtown Rangoon central jail.

About 40 officials attended the hangings. The press was barred, but observers said U. Saw walked erect and without comment from his cell to the gallows. He was not handcuffed and was permitted to make a final obeisance to a small group of onlookers.

Witnesses reported U. Saw was robed in white and wore a white mask. He swayed slightly just before the trap was sprung, but otherwise remained emotionless.

The jail physician pronounced him dead in 15 minutes, but according to Burmese law, the body was permitted to hang a half hour. Three accomplices, Hmon Gyi, Maung Soe and The Hnin, who did the actual shooting, followed U. Saw to the gallows.

Observers said only Hmon Gyi appeared frightened. The Burmese information department photographed the hangings and a government announcement said U. Saw met death with a smile on his face and a prayer on his lips.

The government earlier had refused a request by U. Saw's wife that his body be given to her for burial.

In Rangoon central jail, Sein Gyi and Yan Gyi, Aung were hanged simultaneously. Witnesses quoted Sein Gyi as saying "I am happy to die for my country. What we are accused of is a true fact."

The government took extreme precautions to avoid demonstrations during the executions. Both jails were cordoned off and the executions went quietly.

position Myoat party and a longtime political foe of U. Aung San. He was found guilty of being the brains behind the plot in which five assassins burst into the chamber and sprayed a cabinet meeting with machine gun bullets.

The British removed U. Saw from the premiership during the war because they suspected him of collaborating with the Japanese.

Methodist Social Action Group Meets

Boston, May 8. — (UP) — The Methodist Federation for Social Action, an unofficial group often called the "Social Action Group," today was set to continue its activities for another four years.

Although churchmen had contended the group "was heading too far to the left," the 738 delegates to the church's quadrennial general conference, postponed action on the matter to allow further study.

Expected to be one of the most controversial issues to come before the conference, the social action problem actually was presented to the delegates in the form of two resolutions.

One set up an inter-agency committee, on social issues to "coordinate" social programs. Secretaries of various church boards or divisions serve on this committee.

The second continued for four years the researches of a committee appointed in 1944 which actually had reported to the conference, urging an official commission on social action.

Surprise injection of the issue could bring it before this final session of the conference. But such a move appeared unlikely since 100 other resolutions are scheduled for consideration.

The entire matter of social action and the Methodist federation was fought behind closed doors before the state of the church conference.

Rev. Ernest Fremont Little of Evanston, Ill., chairman of the committee, said his group had debated the matter for hours but could come to no solution. It therefore urged a continuance of the study.

When he presented memorials on the matter to the general conference, Mrs. John H. Werner of Baltimore, Md., presented a substitute motion which was rejected by ballot 314-272.

"I want my church, not the Methodist Federation for Social Action, to speak for me in this field," Mrs. Werner said.

Later, the Rev. Jack R. McLane, secretary of the federation, said he felt the action had no official bearing on his group that comprises 4,000 members including 18 Methodist bishops and was founded in 1907.

Supporting this was Bishop Lewis O. Hartman of Boston, retiring president of the federation, who said action in no way affects the activities of the federation. It will continue its work as a body.

Hope Tempco Melody Boys to Go on Expanded Radio Program: Hope, Arkadelphia

Hope's Tempco Melody Boys, heard at 7:15 every morning over KXAR, 1490, on the Temple Feed Mills program, will double their Arkansas listening audience beginning Monday, May 10.

Wayne H. Barrett, manager of both the Hope and Arkadelphia stations of Temple Feed, announced today that beginning Monday the Melody Boys' broadcast from the local studio will be carried simultaneously on KXAR, 1240, Arkadelphia.

The Hope and Arkadelphia stations are being linked by wire, and when Monday's performance goes on in the KXAR studio the voice of Leo House, local announcer, and the Melody Boys' music will be broadcast all the way to the outskirts of Little Rock.

KXAR has the same power and coverage as Hope, which means that the original listening audience of the Tempco feed program is doubled.

Mr. Barrett, veteran radio engineer himself, inaugurated the Tempco program while in Hope, and on moving recently to Arkadelphia he launched plans for the Arkadelphia hookup to cover south Arkansas.

The details of the two-station connection were worked out in conferences between Mr. Barrett, L. B. Tooley, manager of KXAR, and J. M. Moore, manager of KXAR.

Threatened Rail Strike Boosts Food Prices

By MICHAEL O'NEILL, JR.

Chicago, May 8. — (UP) — The threat of a nationwide railroad strike started food prices climbing today.

Embargoes on perishable shipments sent fruit and vegetable prices shooting up in New York and Chicago. Experts said it would be only a matter of time until the increases spread to the rest of the country.

With the walkout set for Tuesday, many railroads notified shippers that perishables and livestock would not be moved until the crisis passed.

In most American cities — in Boston, Kansas City, San Francisco, Detroit, Los Angeles, and Washington — the impact of the embargoes was not yet felt.

But a Chicago vegetable shipper warned that "prices will rise and the increases will spread next week whether there is a strike or not."

He explained that the railroad embargoes began cutting off shipments yesterday and would continue to do so until at least four days after the strike or threat of strike has passed.

During that time, he said, there probably would be a surge of buying and the inevitable spiral in prices. He estimated that the consumer would begin to feel the price shifts by next week.

Carrot prices of vegetables jumped sharply in Chicago yesterday. Wholesale and retail prices remained unchanged for the time being but were expected to follow suit.

Some typical increases were: Lettuce from $5 to $6 a crate and carrots from $5.50 to six-dozen crates to $6.50 and $7. A large fruit handling firm said prices remained steady but that a "rush" was on to stock up.

Condon Wants FBI Probe Made Public

Washington, May 8. — (AP) — Dr. Edward W. Condon has appealed to President Truman to make public a Federal Bureau of Investigation letter reporting on Condon's loyalty.

The Commerce Department released today an exchange of letters between Condon and Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, in which the atomic scientist asked Sawyer to make his views known to Mr. Truman.

Condon told Sawyer that "I am desirous that there be a full and complete presentation of all the facts."

Condon, 46, is director of the National Bureau of Standards. A House Un-American Activities subcommittee has accused him of being "one of the weakest links" in the nation's atomic security. It also said Condon has associated "knowingly or unknowingly" with alleged Soviet espionage agents.

The FBI letter, dated May 15, 1947, to the Commerce Department loyalty board after an investigation of Condon's background. The board decided unanimously that "no reasonable grounds" exist to doubt Condon's loyalty.

The letter has been a source of conflict between Mr. Truman and the House. After the House committee released its report on Condon, former U. S. Secretary Averell Harriman declined to turn Condon's file, including the FBI letter over to the committee.

Southern Governors to Open Session

Jackson, Miss., May 8. — (AP) — "A united action" against the national Democratic party will be taken at the state's rights convention opening here Monday.

The movement's leader asserted today. The statement was made by Mississippi Governor Fielding L. Wright in a pre-convention interview. Wright sponsored the calling of this revolt convention.

The states' rights movement grew out of southern objection to president's civil rights program. It has been expanded by Wright and other leaders to include additional measures regarded by them as invasions of states' rights by the federal government in other fields.

Some 1,200 delegates from 12 southern states and Indiana, Illinois, and Missouri are expected by those in charge of the convention's arrangements.

Official state status in the convention, though some say they occupy state party positions.

Governor Wright said "I don't know what will happen," adding "this is the delegates' meeting."

No special action objective for the convention has been officially announced. Leaders of the movement have privately predicted that the convention would likely:

1—Serve notice on the national Democratic party that it will withdraw from its position on the civil rights program, states' rights' at the party's national convention would walk out. The leaders say they do not expect such a policy change, and they plan to call a separate convention to nominate a presidential candidate.

South Carolina Governor James B. Edwards, Jr., and Georgia's senior U. S. Senator Walter George have been mentioned as possible nominees.

Select Arkansas Governor Ben Laney as permanent chairman of the states' rights.

Negro Indicted for Rape of Texarkana Girl

The Subway of New York Is Place Where Anything Can Happen and Usually Does

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (AP) — The subway is an underground avenue to and from work.

It is also a place where you can pick up a bedbug or a cold, make a home, commit a murder, hear a harmonica duet, meet a girl, close a business deal or buy a pencil from a blind man.

Some people believe the subway made modern New York City possible. Others are just sure it is the city's poison.

The subway is a twice-a-day purgatory to millions who have to get to work during the rush hours. To out-of-towners it is first an adventure, then just one more reason why New York's a great place to visit, but sure would hate to live here.

It is the safest railroad in the world, but it remains a claustrophobic hell for many who get nervous when the train rolls under the dreading a tube collapse and swift drowning in rushing waters. It is futile to point out to these people this isn't likely to happen.

Here anything can happen. They say. In that they are about right.

The subway is more than a transportation system that sews the town together. Some day it will have a Boswell to write its history. A Boswell to sing its songs.

Some natives here who asked to give their place of birth, can't put down truthfully: "A subway station at so-and-so streets." A few have been born in the subway.

Wheels — fascinating invasions to the life-size — have extinguished the problems of living for hundreds who put their meek in the turnstile for a pass to eternity. Beginning July 1 it will cost a dime.

These "leapers" are the bane of subway workers and cops who must jack up the trains and lift out wheels.

On the spur of the moment, Paul decided to go to London.

He got out of the train at Liverpool Street, looked up Roger Dickson in a telephone directory, hesitated about phoning him, then decided it might be better to go right along and call in person.

A manservant answered the door.

"Mr. Dickson?"

"I'm sorry, sir, Mr. Dickson isn't home."

"I see. You can't tell me where I could find him?"

"Well, no, sir, I'm afraid I can't. He should have been back this evening, but I've had a telegram to say not to expect him till the morning."

Paul took a light hold on himself.

"He's out of town perhaps?"

"Mr. Dickson's been in Paris, sir, for the week-end. Would you care to leave a message?"

Paul's face was white and set. A tumult of emotion surged through him. Rage. Jealousy. And a very real anxiety.

"I don't think so, thanks. I'll call again."

He turned away as the door closed upon him. Well, that was that! He shouldn't have been such a fool as to come chasing up to London. Hadn't he only got what he'd expected? Only what had he got for that matter? There might be 50 explanations as to why Roger Dickson was in Paris. It might even be that Patience wasn't with him. Or, if she were, perhaps they'd both gone over in a party. But supposing them hadn't? Supposing just the two of them had gone—

Morning found him, after a sleepless night, wondering what was the best thing to do about it. Meet all the trains from Paris? Meet all the planes? Since he couldn't very well be in several places at once, this wasn't a very feasible proposition. On consideration, he decided to go to Dickson's flat again.

"Yes, sir," said the manservant. "You called yesterday. Will you come in, sir?"

"Mr. Dickson's back?"

"Yes, sir. He arrived only a short while ago. I'll tell him you're here."

The man showed him into a sort of combined sitting and dining room. Paul admitted grudgingly to himself that it was exceedingly comfortable. Books lined the walls. There were deep leather arm chairs.

"You wanted to see me?"

He turned to find Roger standing in the doorway, disgustingly handsome in a red-and-white-striped dressing gown, a red silk scarf around his neck.

"I'm sorry. Please forgive me. The trouble I've got such a shocking memory for faces. I

Allen, Extension Horticulturist of Fayetteville, will bring the spectators up to date on the latest information on cover crops, fertilization, and other problems in peach production.

The day has passed when you can grow crops without looking up to "Mr. Bug". Insect control is a major job these days. Dr. Charles Lincoln, Extension Entomologist of Fayetteville, will point out the latest methods and insecticides for combating farm insects.

Around 600 FFA boys will arrive at the station on May 11 from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. A ten minute rest stop is provided when they arrive. Three to four bus loads will be sent out as a group to the respective stations as they arrive. An allotted amount of time is given at each stop so that all have finished by noon. Lunch will be served by the Hope FFA Chapter. A speaking program is arranged in the amphitheatre for the boys in the afternoon with guest speakers J. Marion Adams, State Wirecutter, Vocational Education, Little Rock and S. D. Mitchell, State FFA Executive Secretary of Little Rock. The program will last until 2 p.m. All buses leave at this time so they will not take the children home.

The NFA and Negro Veterans are handled in the same manner as the FFA boys. Around 750 are expected to arrive on May 12. Guest speakers for the afternoon program for negroes are C. R. Wilkey, FFA Supervisor, Vocational Education and Ed McCusick, Director, Division of Negro Education.

Veterans' On-The-Farm-Training Study Day is just what it says. The entire day will be taken up with the study of research, work on the station. The expected 2000 Veterans will assemble at the amphitheatre and be divided into 7 groups. Each group will have a captain to keep them organized. At 10 a.m. all groups will move out to the designated stops. When there is a group at all 7 stops the program will start. At regular intervals a bell will ring and each group on the station will move at the same time on to the next stop. This procedure continues until 4 p.m. Some groups will start eating at 11 a.m. and the last group to eat will start at 1 p.m. At 4 p.m. all groups will have had lunch, made all stops and headed for home.

Boudreau and Gustine Top Batters

By MILTON RICHMAN

New York, May 8 — (UP)—Frank Gustine of Pittsburgh, "a good spring hitter," by his own admission and Lou Boudreau of Cleveland, "a good hitter anytime," by his rivals' admission, led their respective circuits in batting today following the first two weeks of big league competition.

Gustine, playing the Pirate third baseman, collected 23 hits in 53 times at bat for a lofty .434 percentage through four games played on May 6th. Boudreau, Cleveland's capable shortstop-manager, had 17 hits in 40 trips to the plate for an equally impressive .425 mark.

Boudreau's closest pursuer in the American League is Ted Williams of Boston with 20 hits in 52 times up for four games.

St. Louis Browns have monopoly on the next places with Al (Zeke) Zarilla at .385, Charles (Chuck) Stevens, .381, and Bobby Dillinger hitting .372.

Following Gustine in the National League is Carl Furillo, Brooklyn's bullet-armed outfielder, with a .381 percentage, Bert Haas of Philadelphia, .375, Stan Musial of the Cardinals, .373, and Harold (Pee Wee) Reese of Brooklyn, .367.

First baseman Ed Stevens of Pittsburgh leads the National League in runs batted in with 17.
